

Paradise Island is a 100 rai or 40 acre undeveloped island south of Thailand, close to the famous Phuket Island. The master plan for this dream-like setting requires not only the understanding of architecture but also sensitivity to its special environment. The project includes a resort with quiet villas or guests. Along with the resort is a research and educational center with accommodations for those studying and preserving this island's greatest natural feature, its coral reef. Landscaping will be designed to place emphasis on the natural environment and lush native vegetation.
