

For many decades, Makkasan Depot Maintenance Center has been located in Makkasan District. Since then the Metropolitan Bangkok has changed so much due to the fast economic and population growth. The area that use to be suburb of Bangkok become a center of business district area. This becomes a reason for The State Railway of Thailand (SRT) to consider moving this center to the less population area in Kaeng Khoi, Saraburi Province. Then the SRT can replace the existing Makkasan site with a much higher value development such as trade center, luxury hotels, entertainment and shopping complex.

The new depot facility will include the maintenance center for locomotives, DMU, cars and other equipment repair shops. The SRT will also provide a better living environment and safety for its employee with a new housing, sport & recreation center and green open space for their community.

Also, the Burachat Chaiyakorn Hospital which located within the Makkasan area will be moved to the new location by SRT. The new hospital facility will be larger and more modern in order to accommodate the future expansion.
